The Prez's Coffee Break

Richard R. (Rick) Lippincott

I have been accused of being an anti-environmentalist! The suggestion has been made that the cups on the masthead are FOAM! I want it clearly understood that the above cups depict CERAMIC CUPS!!

Preparations for Archaeological Preservation Week are moving ahead with impressive speed. Steve Montgomery is heading up this educational display to be located at the Boulder Public Library during April. Arrangements are being made to make it available to other groups and businesses in the Boulder area.

From the Roaring Fork Valley Chapter's Bear Tracks, comes word of an excavation opportunity at the Rowley Hohokam Site at Mesa, Arizona. Help is needed and you can apply by contacting: Prof. Bernice L. McAllister, Director, Archaeological Research Unit, Chaffey Community College, 5885 Haven Ave., Alta Loma, CA 91701 (714)987-1737.

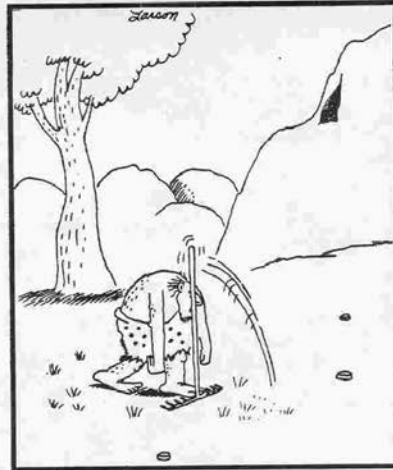

The Chapter received permission from Union Pacific Resources to conduct an archaeological survey and test excavation on its property east of Erie. However, UP wanted $300 to allow the Chapter to conduct the survey. We said thank you, but no thanks!

However, there will be a survey of a rock alignment near Lyons on Saturday, March 16. Those interested will bring lunch, warm clothing, coffee, and meet at U.S. 36 and Colorado 66, east of Lyons at 10 a.m. This is a preliminary investigation and so is primarily a fun outing. Call Rick (828-3906) for info.

Don't forget the Dinosaur Ridge survey with our own Kevin Black. Deadline for registration is March 31. There is a registration form elsewhere in this issue.

Congratulations to Editor Ed Grefrath for the excellent February issue of The Calumet. Great job, Ed.

On March 7, the Chapter is co-hosting the Colorado Council of Professional Archaeologists (CCPA) opening party from 7-8 p.m. at the CU Museum. We need help setting up tables, chilling the beer and punch, and cleanup.

COMING EVENTS - ANN HAYES, VICE PRESIDENT*Indian Peaks Hosts Malville at CU Museum on April 3 at 7:00 PM.

The chapter will join with the University of Colorado Museum in hosting a lecture by J. McKim Malville, "Ancient Astronomy in India and American Southwest". You will find out how two contemporary but significantly different cultures, living an earth-diameter apart, used observational astronomy to establish order and meaning in their lives. The lecture takes place in the newly refurbished Gallery Room of the museum, which presently has an exhibit of photographs and artifacts from the Yellow Jacket Site in Southern Colorado. McKim Malville, author of Prehistoric Astronomy in the Southwest and many other published works, is a professor in the Department of Astro-geophysics at CU. The lecture and slide presentation begins at 7 PM. Refreshments, provided by CAS members, will be served. Parking is available in the Museum lot on a first come first served basis.

INDIAN PEAKS EDUCATIONAL FIELD TRIPS - PLANNING STAGE.*Mancos Canyon Cultural History - Memorial Day WE, May 24/28.

Scenically beautiful Mancos Canyon, adjacent to the Mesa Verde, contains pristine archaeological sites, splendid rock art, and relics of 19th century explorations by the Hayden Expeditions, the pioneering Wetherill family, and other early explorers of the Southwest. It is now the Ute Mountain Ute Tribal Park. The 4 day program includes two days (5/25 and 5/26) of light hiking to easily accessible sites in Mancos canyon, and two days of more rugged hiking (5/27 and 5/28) to view ruins and hunt for historic signatures in remote "off trail" places.

Guides for various parts of the outing include Doug Bowman, Fred Blackman, and Ute Mountain Ute guides.

There will be group camping in Ute Tribal Park where we return each evening. You bring the food. Cooking groups can be arranged. Guide fees will be about $25 per day. You may choose which days you wish to participate, however group size will be limited on days 3 and 4. For more information, equipment list, and detailed itinerary call Ann Phillips, 449-8763 or Marge Quist, 444-2110.

TOUR - AZTEC RUIN & CHACO CANYON w/ Florence Lister, Sept 19/23.

Florence Lister, an author and authority on Spanish and Anasazi pottery, collaborated closely with her husband, Robert Lister, on research at Aztec Ruin and Chaco Canyon for over fifty years. She has been deeply involved in the pioneering phases of Southwest Archaeology (especially the explorations of Earl Morris), and will share these experiences with us during a tour of these major archaeological wonders. For details of itinerary, cost of trip, etc., call Ann Hayes, 494-3773.

CAS QUARTERLY MEETING 1/19/91 - BILL MAXSON

EDUCATION: The CAS Education Committee is preparing a pamphlet on archaeology for elementary school teachers. They are also preparing a three day educational program for teachers only. To assist in the educational project, CAS wants each chapter to assign someone to the Education Committee.

CAS will award a scholarship for a student to go to Crow Canyon. The scholarship will be given to the one who writes the best essay on the importance of archaeology. Contact Don Tucker, 930 Balsam St., Cortez, Colorado, 81321.

CAS will conduct a field survey of Dinosaur Ridge between Morrison and I-70 on May 4th & 5th. The purpose of the survey is to enter Dinosaur Ridge on the national register. PAAC credit will be given. Contact Jean Kindig, 442-2581.

ARCHAEOLOGY AWARENESS WEEK, (April 7 - 13): Each chapter has a list of speakers who can give a talk on a variety of subjects involving archaeology. These speakers will be available throughout the year, as well as during Archaeology Awareness Week. Posters, spot announcements for radio and other handouts have been given to each chapter.

OTHER ITEMS:

1. Each chapter should send a schedule of upcoming activities to the State Office of CAS.
2. All time reports must be completed quarterly and sent to Ray Lyons in the State Archaeologist's Office by the fifteenth of the month after the end of each quarter. Care must be taken to complete the reports correctly, i.e., activity, time in and out, dates, etc..
3. The state office of CAS needs nominations for the C. P. Hurst Award.
4. The Colorado Historical Society will pay for some radio carbon dating. Contact Kevin Black, 866-3395.

5. State CAS meetings for 1991:

April 20: Quarterly Board Meeting, Montrose.

July 4 - 7: CAS Encampment, Ute Campground near Chimney Rock Archaeological Area, Pagosa Springs.

July 27: Quarterly Board Meeting, Gunnison. Western State College, $62 per person for two nights' lodging and meals.

"HIGH ALTITUDE ARCHAEOLOGY" Exhibit

The Indian Peaks Chapter will present this exhibit in conjunction with Colorado Archaeological Preservation Week 7 - 13.

The 15 foot long exhibit will feature a photographic display and text describing the work of James Benedict, a renowned archaeologist whose work for the last twenty years has focused on the prehistoric occupations of Colorado Front Range.

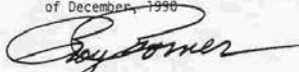

His work has revealed the lifestyle of Native Americans going back 8500 years along the continental divide in what is now the "Indian Peaks Wilderness and Rocky Mountain National Park.

The exhibit will be on display at the Boulder Public Library Main Branch for the entire month of April. Thereafter it will be loaned to other public venues for display.

CAS display builders were Jean Kendig, Janet Lever, Anita McHugh, Steve Montgomery, Ann Hayes, Jeannie Hamilton, Brent Wheeler and Bill Maxson.

Financial support was received from CableLabs Inc, Boulder County Parks and Open Space, The National Forest Service, Jake Hoffman, Ann Hayes, Pallas PhotoLabs, Amaranth Photo Labs, and Indian Peaks, CAS.
