Dec 18 Indian Peaks Christmas Party, 7:00 to 9:30 pm, at Sue and Rick Lippincott's place in Erie. Bring an archaeological "white elephant" from your household midden for our gift exchange and a salty or sweet potluck snack. Look for details in the December newsletter.

The Prez's Coffee Break

One of the most exciting and interesting programs to grace our hallowed halls in a long time, was the October chapter meeting with Jeanette Moberly-Tanaka. She took us to Yellow Jacket in a program that caused you to nearly smell the dust! I don't know how Ann Hayes does it month after month!

In the current issue of Southwestern Lore, is an article on two Early Ceramic burials by our own Kevin Black and others. We are fortunate to have someone of Kevin's background, training and experience in the PAAC program.

At our November 27 meeting, we will have election of officers for the coming year. A nominating committee is already hard at work. The Executive Board voted in October to add two directors to the Board to expand participation. We have a good, balanced program going, and we need to keep it growing.

A flier from the University Press of Colorado, lists a pair of books worth having in an avocational archaeological library. The Ceramic Legacy of Anna O. Shepard, edited by Ronald L. Bishop and Frederick W. Lange, traces Shepard's pioneering efforts to systematically investigate and analyze regional ceramic materials. Ice Age Hunters of the Rockies, edited by Dennis J. Stanford and Jane S. Day, is the result of a major symposium sponsored by the Denver Museum of Natural History, and the National Museum of Natural History at the Smithsonian Institution, and represents the most current views in the often murky arena of aleoindian archaeology.

Both books are available from University Press of Colorado, Box 849, Niwot, CO 80544. The Shepard book is $39.95 and the Paleoindian publication is $19.95 (paper), both plus shipping and handling.

The Chapter Christmas Party will be Wednesday, December 18, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. (more or less) at Sue and Rick Lippincott's place in Erie. Desserts are the feature of the evening. Bring a gift from around the house (that maybe has something to do with archaeology) and any photos, slides, notes, etc., from the summer to share what has been going on.

The final survey of the season will be held Saturday, November 2 (snow date is November 9) at the Abernathy Homestead on Boulder City Open Space, south of Cherryvale Road. This historic site has not been recorded, and is on Open Space's priority list. The other three sites, McGilvery Cabin (OS91-1), Stockton Cabin (OS91-2), and Parson Ranch rock alignment (PR91-1) will be submitted to Kevin and the Open Space office in November.

May there be blast with a fat soul this Thanksgiving
